Biographical history

R.W. Cooper was well known for his preaching work in Britain and in Europe. He wrote numerous poems, tracts and articles and is particularly remembered for his work with his wife in helping displaced Europeans in Britain during World War II. This led to the development of "Gospel to Britain's Guests" which undertook outreach work among refugees in Britain.

Scope and content

The papers include original manuscript and typescript correspondence, autobiographical notes, notebooks of conferences, address books, notebooks of readings at Nutley P.O.W. camp, notebooks of details of European and other emigrants, miscellaneous notes, duplicated typescript and printed poems, tracts and articles. The autobiographical notes were published as a series of articles in Echoes Quarterly Review, 1973-1976. A large number of the letters were written from New Zealand where R.W. Cooper settled with his wife and daughter in his later years. It also comprises papers relating to "Gospel to Britain's Guests": original and typescript correspondence, notes, accounts and printed tracts.

System of arrangement
The catalogue is divided into two sections. The papers in the first section comprise mainly the papers donated by Miss Cooper, though a few donated by Mr. Coad have been included. The second section comprises entirely papers relating to the work of "Gospel to Britain's Guests" donated by Mr. Coad and includes papers originally of others besides R.W. Cooper. When the papers donated by Miss Cooper arrived at the Library, they were found to be in four groups as follows: tracts and articles, poems, original MS. of "A Veteran Remembers" and correspondence, personal papers. The order shown in the catalogue is, however, a rearrangement of this order so as to incorporate the additional papers donated by Mr. Coad. The catalogue is divided as follows (and, within these sections, into chronological order - Note that in Section 1, part 1 however, the papers were first arranged according to correspondents with any draft replies):

Section 1:

3. Notebooks and address books, 1939-1951

Section 2:

1. Letters, notes, minutes, agenda, 1944-1969 and [n.d]
4. Printed tracts, 1957 and [n.d.]

Immediate source of acquisition

The papers came to the Library from two sources: CBA 3087-3194 and CBA 5713(27-33) were donated by Mr. F.R. Coad; CBA 5713(1-26 and 34-78) were donated by Miss P.R. Cooper, daughter of R.W. Cooper.
